MISSOULA---

Saturday could be a record smashing day for University of Montana track and field standards.

The high powered Washington State and Utah track teams visit Montana for a double dual meet with the Grizzlies at Dornblaser Stadium and a dozen stadium marks are in jeopardy.

All the field marks with the exception of the javelin, the hurdles, the mile and the half mile are attainable by the high quality athletes from the Pacific-8 and WAC conferences.

"There's no doubt that many of our field records will be broken," UM track coach Harley Lewis said. "The weather will have a great effect on just how many new marks will be set. Twelve marks could go and of course each event will be exciting because of that potential."

The hammer throw will undoubtedly set a record, since the last time it was thrown here was April 18, 1973 in a non-scoring event. Utah State's Don Johnson tossed it 125-11 then, and all five of the entrants for Saturday's meet have easily surpassed that mark.

The hammer gets the competition underway at noon in Campbell Park. The rest of the field events start at 12:30 p.m. in the stadium.
